Join us in helping Lily Lowell, daughter of Jed Reile and Courtney Lowell . The 6 month old was diagnosed with congenital hip dysplasia the day she was born. Her left hip would dislocate and her right was not fully developed. She had to wear the Pavlick harness 24/7 for the first three months of her life, barely allowing any type of movement at all. With future appointments to her specialist in Minneapolis, possible surgery, and insurance denying her, this has and will continue to create huge medical expenses.
